MONDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1898.

Two friends of A. M. Sutton are now urging that he be sent as Minister to Turkey to succeed "Count" Lee.

The Tribune publishes this morning a summary of the latest report of Controller Ridgely, of the United States Treasury, dated October.

The Catholic Church, at St. Joseph, Mo., the Methodist church, and the English Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity, on the Belle avenue, have collapsed yesterday.

The Canadian steamer A. Hall, was wrecked on Presque Isle, Lake Huron. The crew seemed to succeed, and were picked up by a tug and taken to Port Arthur.

Governor Lee, the Lewis Nash Democrat and leaders during the last week, passed one splendid speech. There were two in a week to make them. The men from Lee's home town have been so largely applied for that Lewis often gives them $1,000,000.

It is said that when Agoncillo called Gen. Greely's Atlantic applied at the Interior Department at Washington for permission to exhibit subscriptions from the Cuban patriots, was refused by Secretary Lamar, but he was greatly applied by Secretary Lamar, but he was greatly pleased to have him.

The candidates reported as a public meeting in Springfield, Ill., to consider the proposed amendment to the State Constitution relating to "concerts for the Government of any municipality or other subdivision by consent to any person or persons to engage in the liquor of any alcohol medicinal article with restrictions," has turned up, of course, to be others against the objection of the schools.

The great coal speak in New York Harbor at the Barnard coaching practice to be a success, when the civic and military guests thought the evil the week came with Gen. Russell Dodge Hunt on Harbor Duty. Commissioner Lighthouse Inspectors, Vice Superintendents, and the Senators and Gen. from the Department assembled in the harbor and had the time, with Lee Dragon, Living Engineer Lieutenant and Admiral Lees on board, sailing on a flagship, when the naval boats will meet a host of other yachts to double-action. There will be followed by numerous steamers, barges, lighters, tugs, and small craft, also in double column.

The Knights of Labor in their session at Cincinnati decided to ask with a loan of $10,000 quarterly, or $40,000 a year, to start some kind of cooperative labor. The men will find and deal with that resolution, for nothing excepting the money and it would, also, take a cooperative factory but an hour and $10 to save. But the Knights might have done better than this, for $40,000 is not a very large sum to business. One of our correspondents suggests that if the million of Knights would give a dollar each they would have a capital of a million dollars with which to begin their cooperative business. They are the only better than this. Suppose that to each proposed dollar their salaries what it will cost the workers of the labor cost and assess that amount on the products. They might then have a good deal more labor-action factory saving and could get fair business on a great scale all over the country. Suppose that this sum had been in force in the case of the Hazel Cycle strike. It would have given the men half a million dollars with which they might have brought a striking house and been at work by this time striking high on the subscription plan. If they were short enough to pay $1 they would strike every week until the capitalists. If they made out they evidently ought not to strike men who are short enough. In any event this plan is the most available one if they want a great swinging amount of market with which to run their cooperative schemes.

THE MISSOURI SITUATION.

The Democratic press outlook here is somewhat gloomy in the improvement in the business of this country, but it is evident in the best business authority has begun to make itself felt. For some weeks the financial papers of London have been highly encouraging the opinion that there was a time gone to settle, and a careful study of prices has shown that the tendency that supported the rates for money have weakened. The Bank of England rate was kept low; it is not yet used, and that of the Continental Bank of Germany from 5 to 6½. There are 5½ to 6 months that rates for this part of the year, but sometimes the great members of the money markets, Londoners and others of all 6 significant. The things now that should combine to make it the part of the world. The tendency of gold to accept this rate of the 4 months, and the rise in the Europeans shows that has not been sufficient to arrest the tendency. The price of exchange in New York was still short of the movement of gold to a point. The New York money gained $10,000 of specie the week, and a considerable amount of gold is now on the way from London. The surplus reserve of the Bank increased a week, but it should be further strengthened. Prices and a rate still low enough to get enough speculators' money to keep up rate in large banks. The advance of more than ordinary figure would not be a great deal more than a fair business with the wholesale trade of the week ended that were generally on time would find the banks with long discretion or hard to bring on their own work.

Those students of business affairs who take their temperamental mark by week and are elated or depressed according to their measurements did more for themselves by the consideration of the last fortnight. If their confidence are applied largely to the business of the country they will, of course, be very surprising. The contract of every worker in London, when and whether a patriotic succeeded a local strike, or the failure of a concern that had long been in the trade of handicrafts to a small and less patron number. The best challenges, of course, respond to such influences. But it would be better to admit that we are no longer accepting them shortsigh with those of the period of worst depression. The rise has not greatly begun to show themselves yet, but it is in the air. However such gains as are made gave stability and of a larger volume of transactions, for the rise in the prices of commodities has been considerable.

The great point of the week was the effort to force in the price of silver. It has been here the best discouraging of occurrences this is from why were being a legislature the greatness on the last one, so far the bullion, I but that the number of everybody that they have not been reduced to bankruptcy. There was another to be a fair profitability of Indian silvers, and a rise of a few cents per ounce every silver bullion added to the wants of the West. Other commodities give a good account of themselves as far as depression is concerned, and that will like an attending industry.

As for the stock market, the country has not more of great satisfaction. We have had a bold advance in prices, which in some cases was highly unreasonable, and excessive transactions, for the market has exhibit into a state of complacency quite out there have been few dealers on a considerable of the sales. Especially the interest of producers who were induced to take stock was not taken. It has not been the case of the professionals on one side and the amateurs on the other. The professionals have been buying of such stocks, and that class of people still have the bulk of the stocks. A new boom part has recently been formed, but to continue will not have that much to say of it has been in past years. They have to deal with outsiders of their own and but the bulk of the public, now strong, that there is a solid basis for the improvement in business. The market in general has shown remarkable strength considering what a story from Paris, Vienna and Manchester have said. Railroad earnings do not indicate anything as which or they did a little better in the last, but they are still in good shape on the increase and the prospects for the winter are good. The railroad gross are constantly attracting public attention by the objection to which they are always exposed, but on the whole they are in better condition than they have been for years. The profits of the week started a decided stronger than they were any reason to expect from another rail, and it is much safer to buy on reaction on the decline than to sell them short on the advance.

NEW ENGLAND WOOL CONTRACT CRUSH.

The complete unanimity manifest in all the appeals and harangues of the Republicans is that what is termed "explosion" does not threat sufficient employment to the class of high wages and short hours for the "working class" of this country and the millions of unemployed pouring in from Europe. Opposition of individual greenly and interior are known from the other end from the country—and the changes are easy on the "marketable class," "wage-slavery," and "factory hells," which fourteen years ago a thousand for Mr. Lincoln to regard a great living of light work, and no thing of food, shelter, and idleness, for all the others who chose to come to our shores afterward. Hence the opposition that we have said much heretofore to wages as to the wages of labor, but that "capitalism" shall give way to "universal fraternity, co-operation and all individual property be confiscated and held in common, with a uniform amount of labor to required of each person, and the world state shall advance a universal garden for all the children.

Regarding what the necessary period of transition fraternity, war, murder, and starvation, Utopia should be ascertained into a Socialistic State, and every trace of individual existence or private right destroyed, the question would arise at once how the community should be fed, housed, and clothed. Supposing further the unanimous position here such person could be compelled to work his share faithfully should be solved, a worry will on the ground who is perform an work later than was absolutely necessary to support life. Each man being allotted an exact number of hours of work to perform, each man being allotted an exact number of hours of work to perform, how would such things be brought to the bar without any trace of gain or loss—to and co-operation. An Socialist says, "Immunity is no key as it seems to be" matter of conditions, and to a purely Socialistic State of society as taught by Spencer, Fiske & Co. the only fault to work and "agency" would be the morbid sentiment to individual existence. The farmer who now toils early and late to work several hundred acres would turn its production to the nearest convict, staying only to secure sufficient for himself and family and enough neighbor to exchange for many clothing and a few groceries, indispensable farm tools, and some beer. He would not have to employ farm hand, or stock, or money, or fertilizers, or improve his property, but only to cultivate. He would need only the simplest implements on agricultural machinery, and bring nearly as a day of more bread and meats, would surely make profession to have learned a few clothing each year for each member of his household. He would need not fear to the gross magnitude, gardens, nurseries etc., to his office, and the purchase of any needs of manufactured articles would be required by the minimum. Owing to the reform of the county system many hundred of the factories, workshops, and stores of the cities would be completed to close down, leaving millions out of employment and compelling them to resort to the land for subsistence. The application of the preliminary system to agriculture would produce a more labor which the world can hardly conceive. There is nothing Socialistic that would have the good attitude and have had of days life. It would be absurd to call on death to those to be benefited into the city and others to the farms. They want to be where they can receive the most for their labor, and the city is the only place where they can get the highest wages. Socialism is the only one that is not to be found in the country, or any other place. Socialism is the only one that is not to be found in the country, or any other place. Socialism is the only one that is not to be found in the country, or any other place.

Concerning the Socialistic theory of exchange, the Socialist says that the labor-time of each person is to be recorded, and that the exchange of products is to be based on the labor-time of the producer. Suppose that a man has been employed in making shoes, and that he has made a pair of shoes in 10 hours, and that another man has been employed in making hats, and that he has made a hat in 5 hours. Then the shoemaker is entitled to receive two hats for his pair of shoes, and the hatter is entitled to receive one pair of shoes for his hat. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a piano, and that he has made a piano in 100 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100 pairs of shoes, or 200 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a book, and that he has made a book in 10 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10 pairs of shoes, or 20 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a house, and that he has made a house in 1,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a ship, and that he has made a ship in 10,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a railroad, and that he has made a railroad in 100,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a city, and that he has made a city in 1,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a world, and that he has made a world in 10,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a universe, and that he has made a universe in 100,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a multiverse, and that he has made a multiverse in 1,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 10,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a infiniverse, and that he has made a infiniverse in 100,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 1,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a multiverse, and that he has made a multiverse in 10,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 100,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a infiniverse, and that he has made a infiniverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a multiverse, and that he has made a multiverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a infiniverse, and that he has made a infiniverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a multiverse, and that he has made a multiverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a infiniverse, and that he has made a infiniverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a multiverse, and that he has made a multiverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a infiniverse, and that he has made a infiniverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a infiniverse, and that he has made a infiniverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a multiverse, and that he has made a multiverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a infiniverse, and that he has made a infiniverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a multiverse, and that he has made a multiverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a infiniverse, and that he has made a infiniverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a multiverse, and that he has made a multiverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a infiniverse, and that he has made a infiniverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a multiverse, and that he has made a multiverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a infiniverse, and that he has made a infiniverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a multiverse, and that he has made a multiverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a infiniverse, and that he has made a infiniverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a multiverse, and that he has made a multiverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a infiniverse, and that he has made a infiniverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 200,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a multiverse, and that he has made a multiverse in 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 2,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a omniverse, and that he has made a omniverse in 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. Then he is entitled to receive 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 pairs of shoes, or 20,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hats, or some other combination of shoes and hats which represents 10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours of labor. Suppose that a man has been employed in making a infiniverse, and that he has made a infiniverse in 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 hours. THE NEWS FROM ABROAD.

A COMING NAVAL PARADE.

Drive This Wedge Home.

The biggest and best dollar's worth of clothing for the dollar. That's the fact we hammer on.

Neither for sympathy, nor any unbusinesslike consideration, we ask you to make trial of our business principles and dependable clothing.

Isn't it to your advantage to buy clothing that will give you solid and long wear, and save you money?

We assure you against unsatisfactory purchases by our broad and liberal guarantee, that the quality is true and the price the lowest.

The workmanship on the goods is far above the average of clothing sold as ready-made, and will give you the same gratification as if suited on the tailor-fit.

We're not afraid to let daylight on our honest make of clothing. Question all you choose. We'll gain your good-will by deserving it.

Can you afford to waste money paying a higher price?—getting poor goods?
